

Call for Speakers

Emergency Medical Services and Prehospital Focus

The Vermont Division of Emergency Preparedness, Response and Injury Prevention is actively seeking speakers for its 2019 Healthcare and EMS Preparedness Conference held October 31 - November 3, 2019 at the Hilton Burlington in Burlington, Vermont.

The conference looks to offer attendees excellent presentations relevant to emergency medical services and prehospital medicine; public health; and disaster preparedness. Successful submissions will focus on those topic areas.

Speakers should be dynamic presenters of a professional caliber and have previous speaking or teaching experience. All presentations will be allotted one hour for presentation including questions. The conference planning committee will review all submitted proposals and select those that best meet conference objectives. Preferential selection will be given with consideration of the following elements:

- Topics that support the National Continued Competency Program Requirements
- Topics capable of aligning to the Vermont EMS treatment protocols.

It is strongly encouraged that presenters submit at least two session proposals.

For more information see:
